

Bio

KG is a young South African, singer, pianist and composer. Singing in 5 languages with a voice that has been described as 'a fine red wine'. This former South African Idol finalist tailors her talent singing in multiple genres including pop, r&b, disco, jazz and afro beat.

"One of the most powerful live vocal displays that I have EVER seen..."
- Lawrence Kerr , Jazz.FM 91

Since having moved to Canada 4 years ago, KG won production and radio contests with The Beat 91.5 in Kitchener and Flow 93.5 Toronto's most popular urban station. Recently she has been featured in shows like "Honey Jam"; the stomping grounds of Canadian artist Nelly Furtado, and won awards in competitions like the "100% music songwriting contest. Other notable feats have included performing at festivals such as North America's largest African festival "Afrofest, and the Bana Y'afrique festival as well as The Gladstone hotel's World Music series. In addition to being featured in print and on Television in Canada and South Africa, KG was a Top 20 finalist out of 40,000 hopefuls with the USA Worldshowcase in Las Vegas.

Besides working with well renowned producers like Marcus Kane (of "Snow - Informer" fame) and Tone Mason (Fantasia Barrino), KG has also lent her voices to jingles like leading Eyewear company "Hakim Optical."

One of the highlights of working in the pop and world music scenes included the opportunity to collaborate on a Charity AIDS song "Let's Find A Way" with Canadian stars like Zaki Ibrahim and David Clayton Thomas best known as the front man of popular Canadian band "Blood, Sweat and Tears."

When not performing at Corporate Events, KG can be seen leading her own band singing songs of love, addiction and paradise. She continues to sing, write and collaborate and license great songs.